Method

- Have participants form group of 4-5 people.
- One of the participants in each group will be “it” and stand off to the side (far enough away that they can’t hear the group talking).
- The remaining group members will form a circle and choose one member that they will protect. Once they have decided who they are protecting they call the “it” participant back to the group.
- The “it” participant’s goal is to tag the protected player.
- The group’s goal is to protect the chosen group member by spinning and not allowing the “it” person to tag them. The group must “stick together” by holding hands the entire time.
