Pre-adjudication detention facility:
 county-operated facility to serve youth awaiting trial for delinquent conduct.
 The juvenile judge reviews their detention decisions every TK days.

County post-adjudication correctional facility:
 county-operated facility to serve youth who have been adjudicated for delinquent conduct, and placed in a facility as a term of their juvenile probation to engage in rehabilitation services.

State post-adjudication correctional facility:
 state-operated secure correctional facility to serve youth who have been adjudicated for felony delinquent conduct and committed to a term of confinement in state facility. Youth typically have longer lengths of stay than in county facilities, and engage in intensive rehabilitative programming targeted at their criminogenic risk.
